

GNA welcomes Aaron Coleman as technical support specialist

Oshkosh, Wis. – Girbau North America (GNA), in Oshkosh, Wis., recently welcomed Aaron Coleman, of Oshkosh, as technical support specialist.

In his new role, Coleman takes an array phone calls each day relating to the troubleshooting, installation and repair of GNA laundry systems. Additionally, he assists with GNA service training workshops; regularly helps with product maintenance and training assistance in the field; and collaborates on the creation and development of technical support and improvement projects and bulletins.

“We are delighted to have Aaron on our service team,” said Technical Service & Training Manager Shannon Rose. “His experience in aircraft electronics and maintenance will make for a speedy transition into commercial laundry technical service.”

Coleman, who served as five years as an aviation technician for the U.S. Marine Corps, holds more than a decade of experience in aircraft mechanic and field service roles. He is pursuing an associate’s degree in electronic engineering technology from Fox Valley Technical College, in Appleton, Wis.

“My position with GNA aligns with what I am going to school for, so I am hoping to improve my skills and craft,” said Coleman. “I really like GNA’s delegative leadership approach, which allows me to problem solve and learn with a hands-on approach.”
